

FROM ALL SIDES.

Humbled by Apologizing for Angry Words,

Mr. Pence is Bapped by Mr. Cooper.

HIS OWN INTERESTS

Are Subverted by the Present Silver Bill.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Mr. Pence's speech of Monday, in which he struck right and left at his colleagues in the house, and a prominent figure in yesterday's proceedings, Mr. Pence's reference to Mr. Hainer had been incorrectly reported, and rising to a question of privilege, he took occasion to apologize for the personalities he had indulged in, but Mr. Cooper of Indiana was not satisfied, and gave him a severe scolding.

Again Mr. Hainer was unable to muster a quorum on his motion to close debate on the silverage bill, so he allowed the debate to run on without limit.

Immediately after the reading of the Journal Mr. Pence of Colorado, rose to a personal explanation. When the house adjourned last night, said he, it had refused, on motion, to permit him to proceed with an explanation he was making. When he arose this morning he was amazed to find in a newspaper the erroneous statement of his remarks which he understood had been sent out to a number of papers. He sent to the clerk's desk and had read this statement, which made him say that he charged Mr. Hainer with being "fuller of beer than comprehension of ideas." What he had said was: "Fuller of beer than of ideas." He had immediately written a letter of apology, which he sent to the clerk's desk and had read. Acting under the advice of friends, whom he knew to be wise and experienced in such matters, he said he thought he owed a more explicit apology to the gentleman from Nebraska. What he had said was in the heat of debate, following a direct charge that he had said he desired to see this bill defeated.

"I should also say," he continued, "that in other utterances I have gone beyond all the language that should be used in a legislative body. For such of them as might, by any construction, be deemed unparliamentary, I do, now and gladly apologize, and I now ask unanimous consent that the colloquy between Mr. Hainer and myself last night be stricken from the permanent record. There was no objection and it was ordered. This was not to be the end, however. Before Mr. Pence had resumed his seat, Mr. Cooper of Indiana, rose to a question of privilege to call Mr. Pence to account for the reflection cast upon him. Mr. Cooper read the words to which he took exception, to the effect that Mr. Hainer and Mr. Oates had, last summer, when the repeal bill was up, obeyed the commands and demands of the executive and traded and swapped openly before the eyes of the world." He asked Mr. Pence to explain what he meant, and the Colorado representative again came forward.

He said that even in the closing hours of the last congress, when Henry Villard, as representative of the incoming administration, was here trying to secure the repeal of the Sherman law, Mr. Cooper had voted for free silver. Yet last fall, acting under a Democratic administration, he had changed his entire course. That justified what he had said. "Although Mr. Cooper spoke for repeal," Mr. Pence concluded, "he now seeks to save his silver record by supporting this bill in the face of the coming election."

Mr. Cooper said in reply that what Mr. Pence had said of his silver record prior to the congress was true. But in the midst of the panic last spring he had come to the conclusion that free coinage for the United States would bring untold disaster. He made up his mind to that before he came to Washington to attend the extra session, and was so quoted. Taken in connection with the other remarks of Mr. Pence, his reflections could only mean that his position had been shifted at the dictation of the White House.

"While I honor Mr. Cleveland," said Mr. Cooper, "as I do few men, I desire to say I never had any conversation with Mr. Cleveland on the subject of the Sherman law until after the bill was reported. Mr. Cleveland arrived at entirely independent of others and I consider the reflections of the gentleman from Colorado wholly unjust, unkind and untrue. I should differ from him on any subject under any circumstances with the greatest degree of reluctance, yet I sincerely believe the gentleman's intemperance and conduct on this floor are prompted by an interest which has overwhelmed him, and that if he would stop and think where he is placing himself and where he is going he would speedily retract himself. He is interested largely in silver mines, and if he will read the statutes of congress and the laws of his country he will learn he has no right to vote upon this question, much less to speak upon it. He has a direct personal and pecuniary interest in the result of this legislation, and if he would exercise that degree of caution or modesty of common decency that ought to commend itself to a man having financial interest in pending legislation he would hesitate before he attacked the motives of his colleagues, honorable men who are serving their country as they believe, instead of their personal gain."

Mr. Cummins jumped to his feet and brought down a laugh by shouting, "If it is in order, I suggest that now for an opportunity for some one to apologize for his remarks with reference to the New York Democracy."

Speeches were made in favor of the bill by Bowers of California, Allen of Mississippi, Heard of Missouri and Bryan of Nebraska, and against by Cannon of Illinois and Walker of Massachusetts.

CAUCUS ON THE TARIFF BILL.

Democrats of the Senate Again Discuss the Measure.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The Democrats of the senate spent an hour of yesterday in caucus as Monday. The proceedings were not marked by any interesting incidents and the discussion was more of the character of argument in favor of the interests which the various senators particularly represented.

Senator Hill made a vigorous attack upon the income tax, saying he considered it poor policy to reduce the customs revenues, as to create a deficit, as was contemplated by the Wilson bill, and then to make this deficit good by the imposition of an unjust and odious tax, which has never before been levied in this country except as a war measure, and had been the first law enacted on account of war to be repealed.

The members of the finance committee feel they cannot at any time after reasonable time shall have been made to conciliate all interests, secure a majority of the senate, but they say they do not wish to resort to harsh measures, and in their desire to present a bill which will be sure of the solid party support and prevent the airing of party differences in the open senate, they will not resort to this test for the present.

THE KEARSARGE TO BE SAVED.

House Naval Committee Will Favorably Report Representative Blair's Bill.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The remains of the historic Kearsarge will be raised from the bottom of the sea by the house committee on naval affairs has its way. The committee voted to report favorably Representative Blair's bill, but was more liberal than Mr. Blair. While his bill would appropriate $30,000 for the undertaking, the committee decided to raise the sum to $75,000, with a proviso that the wrecking company shall receive not more than $10,000 if the attempt fails.

Secretary of the Navy Herbert sent to Representative Cummings of the house committee on naval affairs, a letter indorsing the project of raising the old ship. He urged that any action toward a rescue should be taken at once. The naval committee therefore sought to secure immediate consideration for a bill framed according to the secretary's suggestion.

Mr. Blair demanded that the silver debate should proceed, adding that the Kearsarge rescue and other projects would have to wait until the silver bill was disposed of.

Cherokee Strip Intruders.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Representative Hunter introduced a bill to appropriate $4,994 to be used by the commission appointed to appraise the property of the intruders of the Cherokee nation. The bill also provides that the president is authorized to use the army in removing intruders when the appraisal of property is completed and the form prescribed has been followed.

To Change the Jury Law.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Mr. Bryan of Nebraska has introduced in the house a bill to amend the revised statutes so as to permit, in civil cases, the verdict of three-fourths of the jurors, constituting the jury to stand as the verdict of the jury, and such a verdict to have the same force and effect as a unanimous verdict.

Brief Session of the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The senate held another brief session yesterday in which nothing of importance was accomplished, and at 1:00 o'clock adjourned, after an executive session of half an hour, in order that the caucus might be continued.

ENDED IN A DRAW.

Don Greedan and Dick Moore Put Up a Great Ten-Fight Fight.

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 28.—The much talked of meeting between Don Greedan, of Australia, and Dick Moore, of St. Paul, champion middleweight of the Northwest, took place last night at the Casino, before 3,000 persons and ended in a draw. The fight lasted ten rounds and was a hot give and take affair from beginning to end.

Greedan had the best of the first and was stronger than Moore at the finish. He was more scientific and a harder hitter.

PIMMER, S. D., Feb. 28.—A large pasture will be fenced in on the reservation north of the Cheyenne river, by permission of the government, by Fred Dupree for his herd of buffalo. This is the largest herd of buffalo anywhere in the world at present, and the preservation and increasing of it is very essential to prevent the breed from becoming extinct in a very few years.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 28.—In the Lincoln county circuit court yesterday four negroes pleaded guilty to lynching Nelson, an inmate of the jail at Varna last November. The negroes and Yancy Norwicks were given sentences of five years each, and Tom Tinsley and Abe Washington got one year each.

SHOT IN JAIL.

A Missouri Mob Overpowers the Jailer,

And Riddles Two Murderers With Bullets.

PLEADED IN VAIN.

Halfhour Speech Made to Mob Without Result.

WEST PLAIN, Mo., Feb. 28.—Monday night about 11:30 o'clock, several hundred men, supposed to be inhabitants of Ozark county, Missouri, and Fulton and Baxter counties, Arkansas, assembled at Mountain Home, Ark., for the purpose of lynching Anderson Carter and Bud Montgomery, alias Jasper Newton. The mob was very orderly and went about its business with a firm determination to see that justice was meted out to the guilty. The mob overpowered the jailer and guard, took their guns and demanded the keys.

Hon. J. C. South, representative of Baxter county, made a half hour speech to the mob and begged that the lives of the men be spared and that the law be allowed to take its course. The men listened in sullen silence to his talk and that of others, and then went about their work of vengeance. They procured the keys, unlocked the doors and commenced shooting into the jail.

After about twenty shots the firing ceased. Anderson Carter was dead, but Newton was found to be alive and aiding for water. This was given him, and then the mob finished its vengeance by riddling his body with bullets. Both died protesting their innocence, and only asked that they be released of their shackles.

According to a previous agreement, the life of Bart Carter, the one of the trio who confessed and gave the whole thing away, was spared, and it is thought he will be given a life sentence in the penitentiary. He was forced to do what he did by his father, Anderson Carter, who told where the money was, went with a posse and recovered $1,000 of it. Bart Carter says Anderson Carter did the planning and Newton the killing.

The mob was afraid to take the men out and hang them for fear the sheriff and his posse would interfere. After completing their work the men quickly dispersed.

The crime for which the two men were killed was the killing of Hunter Wilson in Baxter county, Arkansas, on the night of December 18. While Wilson was sitting with his wife by the fireplace, the two men entered the house, killed him instantly, robbed him of his wife, robbed the house of $1,000, after burning live coals of fire upon Wilson's body, made their escape. Mrs. Wilson managed to crawl to a neighbor's and gave the alarm. William McAninch was arrested for the crime, but his insanity, alleged a few days ago. The crime was a cold-blooded one and the mob will long be remembered by the people of Baxter county.

The Carter, who was killed, had the reputation of having killed a man in Texas county, and Newton, whose real name was Montgomery, was wanted in Clay county for a crime committed fifteen years ago.

AN EX-LAWMAKER A MURDERER.

Ex-Representative Harlan Kills Charles E. Moore at Jefferson City, Mo.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Feb. 28.—The most deplorable tragedy that ever occurred in this section of the state was enacted yesterday afternoon on the ferry plying between this city and Callaway county. Hon. Charles H. Harlan and Mr. Charles E. Moore, two of the most prominent and highly respected citizens of Callaway became involved in a quarrel, and Harlan shot and killed Moore. The facts of the case are thus stated.

Eye witnesses on the boat state that Moore came aboard about 1:30 o'clock from Callaway City. He told Captain Kay that Harlan was following, and that he expected trouble. Harlan arrived a few minutes afterward, and Moore, on the advice of the captain, went up into the cabin to avoid him, but was followed by Harlan. A war of words ensued and Moore left the cabin and returned to the lower deck, picking up a piece of cord wood as he passed the engine room.

Harlan followed him and the quarrel was renewed. The crew of the boat again interfered, but Harlan insisted that he would not desist until Moore dropped the stick of wood. A moment later he drew his revolver and fired the fatal shot. Moore staggered up the companion way to the cabin and sank on the floor in a dying condition. He lived about twenty minutes after the shooting.

Harlan mounted a horse and rode away, saying as he left: "I am going down home. Tell the sheriff if he wants me he can find me there." Moore's body was brought to this city where he is residing temporarily. He is a wealthy, retired farmer, and a man of high character. Harlan has in the past been one of the leading Democratic politicians of Callaway county. He was elected Representative in 1892, and is now a candidate for the Democratic nomination for railroad commissioner.

The tragedy has caused a tremendous sensation on account of the prominence of both men. The trouble, it is learned, between the men was of recent origin. It was a case of business transactions, and Moore expressed fears some days since that something of the kind would come.

Five Famous Etchings.

The publisher of the New York Central has just issued a series of five beautiful etchings, which artistically outrank anything of the kind ever issued by a railroad company, while the absence of any advertising feature renders them suitable for hanging in your office, library or home.

A brief description of each, with a glance at their titles, is all that is necessary to obtain a fair idea of the pictures. No. 1 is "Washington Bridge," which spans the Harlem river at 181st street, one of the finest bridges in the world, and a marvel of engineering. In the distance is Highbridge, the Croton viaduct in the foreground a characteristic river scene, that will be recognized by any one at all familiar with the locality.

No. 2—"Rock of Ages, Niagara Falls," from a photo by William H. Jackson & Co., Denver. A view that has been admired by every one who has seen it. The soft tones in which it is printed add greatly to the effect of the falling waters and spray.

No. 3—"Old Spring at West Point," also from a photo by William H. Jackson & Co., Denver. A romantic scene, recalling memories of summer days at the famous military academy.

No. 4—"900 and the De Witt Clinton." The famous Empire State Express Engine "900" which occasioned such widespread comment at the World's fair, occupies the top half of the card, and below appears the old "De Witt Clinton," affording a truly remarkable example of the progress of railroad science in the past fifty years.

No. 5—"Rounding the Nose, Mohawk Valley." One of the handsomest railroad pictures ever made. The scene is just below Little Falls.

These etchings are all printed on fine plate paper, 24x32 inches, suitable for framing. Copies of either of them can be procured at the office of W. B. Jerome, 97 Clark street, Chicago, for 35 cents, or will be mailed in stiff tube, secure from injury, to any address, postpaid, for 75 cents each, or the entire set for $3.00 in currency, stamps, express or postal money order, upon application to George H. Daniels, general passenger agent, Grand Central station, New York.

Palpitation of the Heart and A General Break Down

The Good Effect of Hood's Was Marked and Permanent.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass."

"Gentlemen:—I was taken down sick last December, and became very weak with nervous trouble, palpitation of the heart, and a general break down. I had a good physician, but he would not give me any medicine, and I was only able to get up, until the 24th of March, when I concluded I would give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial. When I had used it a short time, I could get up and go to all about my house all day. I have never enjoyed perfect health, but am now taking my 6th bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and how it has helped me wonderfully. I have used Hood's Pills, and think them excellent." Mrs. A. E. LANIER, Bush's Mills, Ohio.
